Dear Traflea hiring team,

I am applying for the Growth Marketer, Retention role for your apparel brands. The way you frame retention, personalised customer experiences that drive engagement and lifetime value rather than one-off emails, describes exactly the direction I am building my career in: retention and customer lifecycle, grounded in data.

At BBVA I run daily CRM operations and own the customer relationship with a clear focus on retention; alongside work I am completing the Google Data Analytics Professional Certificate so I can turn metrics into decisions. Here is how my profile maps to what you need:

- Retention & CRM: daily CRM operations for over 100 customers per week, prioritising retention and experience over single transactions.
- Data to action: SQL, spreadsheets and visualisation to read open rate, CTR and conversion, and to recommend optimisations backed by evidence.
- Copy & creative: conversion-oriented copy for brand campaigns, coordinated with visual content in Canva.

I am honest about my starting point: my hands-on experience with automation platforms like Klaviyo or Customer.io and with running A/B tests across Email, SMS, Push and WhatsApp is still forming. What I bring is a solid CRM and retention foundation, real copywriting practice, English to collaborate globally, and a proven ability to learn fast while working and studying in parallel, exactly the pace a fast-moving, experiment-driven team needs.

I am based in Mar del Plata and fully set up to work remotely. I would be glad to contribute data-driven, customer-focused, consistent execution to a team that scales its own globally loved D2C brands.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards,

Bianca Dondero
