Dear Digital Silk Hiring Team,

I am writing to apply for the Junior Digital Strategist role. I plan, build and launch web projects end to end on my own initiative, using AI tools for research and drafting with the same output-checking discipline this role asks for, and I would bring that proactive, detail-focused approach to your strategy team.

What draws me to Digital Silk specifically is the proactivity and self-betterment your posting describes as core to the team, and the structured seven-phase process I found on your site, from strategy discovery through post-launch optimization, that mirrors how I already work. Here is what I would bring to the role from day one:

- Research-to-launch experience, on-page SEO included: independently planned, built and launched three web projects (Next.js, Astro), covering the same arc your website projects follow: research, content and site-structure decisions, build, launch and iteration. One of them includes an SEO tool I built that pulls a site's real title tags and meta descriptions to flag on-page fixes, close to the SEO QA this role asks for.
- AI research and drafting, verified: daily, hands-on use of Claude Code and the Gemini API to research and draft content faster, always checking outputs against real data before using them.
- Content planning and web copy: planned and published 15 posts per month for local brands across three seasons, and wrote conversion-oriented copy for a real-estate platform, early practice drafting headlines and calls to action meant for a reader to act on.
- Organized under deadline pressure: resolve 50+ customer queries per week on live banking systems at BBVA Argentina, keeping multiple tasks and deadlines moving at once without letting accuracy slip.

I am honest about where I am still building: I have no hands-on WordPress experience, only basic, self-taught Figma knowledge rather than professional use, and I have not used a dedicated keyword research tool, though the competitor-auditor and SEO-optimizer tools I built involved similar real-site research. What I do have is a track record of shipping real, live products on stacks I had not touched before, so I expect to pick up WordPress and these tools the same way, and I would welcome the chance to prove that on the practical parts of your process.

I am available to work 8am-5pm EST and comfortable with the fully remote, US-client-facing structure of the role. I look forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards,

Bianca Dondero
